

Launching of « Win the Jackpot TV » in Ghana

News paper: Daily Graphic

Date: 7th of February 2004

Picture: EMMANUEL O. BANES

• Two ladies of DNL unveiling the machine for the newly launched TV Jackpot

National Lotteries launches new raffle

Story: Donald Ato Dapatem

THE Department of National Lotteries yesterday launched a family fun game, dubbed "Win The TV Jackpot."

The game, which is the first scratch card game offering an unlimited jackpot, is a collaborative effort of STB McCANN, an advertising firm, and Feligames, an international renowned game concern.

It is a scratch card-based game played for entertainment, fun and cash reward with each scratch card costing c4,000 and a guaranteed c10 million win on TV. Scratch and match three times the same amount on the card and win that amount, however, if one scratches and finds a lucky number three times with the TV symbol appearing three times, that person qualifies to appear on TV as a contestant.

Players win either through an instant cash prize or get the opportunity to play for the jackpot on the TV show.

Briefing the press, the Deputy Director, Marketing Department of the DNL, said the game is designed to benefit all stakeholders ranging from the coupon holder, sellers and the nation. He said coupons will be sold throughout the country by sellers who will go round while supper markets and fuel filling stations will also be used as sale points.

National Lotteries launches new raffle

The National Lottery of Ghana launches "Win the Jackpot TV". For the first time on the Ghanaian market an instant game which makes it possible to win unlimited Jackpot. The tickets will be put on sale in various point of sale (kiosk, gas station, itinerant salesmen...).